

APRIL 19

ENBRIDGE LIES

Big Oil Whistleblower John Bolenbaugh found an enormous amount of oil remaining in the environment from the Kalamazoo Oil Spill. In the summer of 2010, millions of gallons spilled into Talmadge Creek and Kalamazoo River. Enbridge, the Canadian Oil Company responsible, and the EPA signed off on these sites as 100% clean by the fall of 2010. John, recorded videos finding oil left in Michigan waterways after the cleanup was declared done. For years, he interviewed hundreds of victims and their stories. Today Enbridge threatens all of the Great Lakes, and here in Wisconsin they are moving ahead to expand their pipelines while the straights of Mackinac are in grave peril from another set of pipes well beyond their prime.
